NEW PARENTS

Having a baby is engrossing, and demanding. You're enchanted, yes, but you're also tired and stressed. You just don't have time for all the things you used to do only a few months ago. And often the first thing to go is your social life. You don't see your friends as much, you don't go to the movies as much, and you certainly don't participate as much in the civic activities of your community.

Fair enough. When your baby's teething you can't really give your full attention to your own passions and interests. It's all about greater need.

You don't want to get out of the habit entirely, though. You don't want to become isolated. That can happen more easily than you might think, and if it does it's likely to leave you feeling down and having nobody to talk to about it. That's not good for your health – physical or mental. Fretting alone is bad for you. Company does you good – all the studies say so.

You're going to want to get out of the house and mix and mingle with other adults. You're going to want to have people to boast to, and people to discuss colic with, and people who can exercise the parts of your mind that a baby doesn't reach. You're going to need to be valued and respected and thanked. It will benefit your child, too. Research has found that parents who are connected into strong community networks find it easier to provide a positive context where their children's social, educational and emotional needs are met.

Join in! Find a community group that interests you – there are 700,000 community groups in Australia; there's definitely one for you!

There are support groups for new parents, where you can swap achievements and horror stories and tips for new players.

Look them up in the following pages.

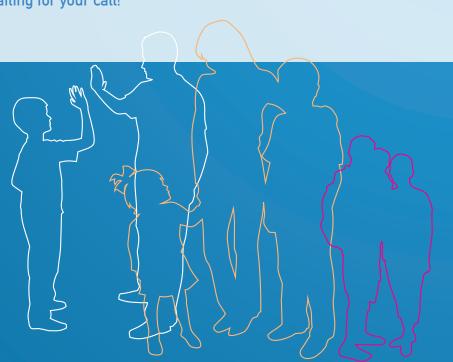

Don't stop there, though. What about your other interests? There are hundreds and thousands and hundreds of thousands of clubs out there, and associations and committees and action groups and people sitting around a table engaging in hobbies and crusades and sports and performances and activities. They could do with your contribution, and they can offer you a lot in return.

Look on the Our Community website – www.ourcommunity.com.au/joinin – for a group you can relate to.

Come on - Join in, Join up!

Get connected! Find your place! Make a contribution! Make the world a better place – and a better place for you.

There's a community group out there waiting for your call!

What?

Join In, Join Up! is an Australia-wide program designed to encourage people to take up a more active role in their communities. Through online information and a range of other resources, like this brochure, we're helping people get connected, and reap the benefits for themselves and their communities.

Why?

Our goal is to get the message out to as many people as possible that joining a community organisation can have huge benefits for your health and wellbeing – all the studies say so! There are other benefits as well. The more people that get involved with community groups, the stronger those groups will be – and that means stronger local communities, and a stronger nation

How?

Pharmacists and pharmacy assistants will be able to help people 'get connected' with a great community group in their local area or interest area, acting as a link between the public and the community organisations listed on the Our Community Directory of Community Organisations. They'll be handing out listings like this one, and directing people to the Join In, Join Up! webpages.

But you don't need to visit a pharmacy to take part – simply go to www.ourcommunity.com.au/joinin to find a group that's right for you. Have a look for groups that are important to you – and ones that could be.

Who?

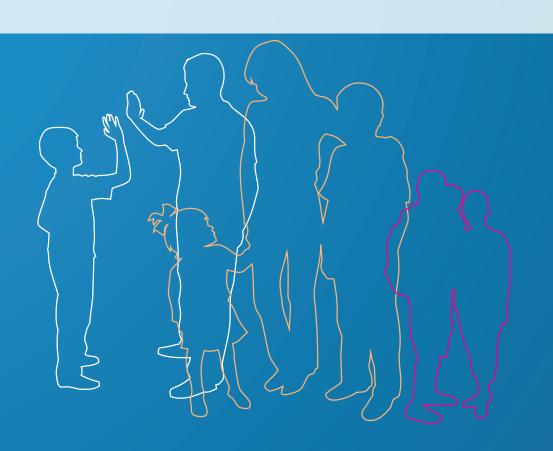

Join In, Join Up! is an initiative of the Pharmacy Guild of Australia and Our Community, and is proudly supported by the Telstra Foundation.
